Entertainments

FORMER MEMPHIAN HONORED WITH LOVELY DANCING PARTY

Mrs. Jere C. West, of Bedford, Pa., formerly of Memphis, was complimented on Friday evening with a delightfully planned dancing party given by Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Kenton in their home, 1877 Madison avenue.

For the occasion the rooms where dancing was enjoyed were decorated with a profusion of cut flowers and ferns. An orchestra rendered an excellent program and during an intermission Mr. Angelo Cortese, the most gifted harpist in the South, delighted the guests with several beautiful selections on his wonderful instrument.

Chancellor Israel Peres was the toastmaster of the evening and caused much merriment by his original and brilliant remarks.

Misses Virginia and Evelyn West, the attractive little daughters of the honoree, who were gowned in white organdie frocks with dainty pink and blue ribbons, presided over the punch bowl.

Dr. and Mrs. Kenton were assisted in receiving their guests by Mrs. West, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Schevenel.

Mrs. Kenton was gowned in white beaded georgette crepe, Mrs. West in light blue georgette crepe, Mrs. Fisher in dark blue georgette crepe, and Mrs. Schevenel in orchid embroidered French voile.

The guest list included 35 friends of the honoree and hostess. A number of other charming social affairs are being planned for Mrs. West.

CLUBDOM

RECEPTION PLANNED TO HONOR FREDERICK WARDE

Mr. Frederick Warde distinguished Shakespearean actor and lecturer, will be interested in the appearance of his book entitled "Fifty Years of Make Believe." It is a most charming resume of his years on the stage, and of the many friendships he made among the celebrities of the footlights, as well as those of the social and intellectual world outside of his profession.

Especially will Memphians be interested in this little book, as Mr. Warde speaks at length, and lovingly, of his many friends here, and of the brilliant receptions accorded him on his several visits. The old Chickasaw Guards club is allured to with a special tribute. The book may be obtained at local book stores. Those fortunate enough to number themselves among the personal friends of Mr. Warde will be glad to hear that, not only can they get news of him from the printed page, but that he himself will be here in person next week at the Goldenwyn institute.

There will be a reception tendered him by the Nineteenth Century club as well as other social affairs given by his warm personal friends.

ing a program of especial interest to mothers as it will present certain problems of high school that mothers can help solve, and by co-operation of the home and school emphasize the purpose for which Parent-Teacher associations are formed.

The association offers a prize to the room securing the most mothers in attendance.

The House of Hope.

Note.—This beautiful poem, which comes from the pen of Mrs. Annah Robinson Watson, one of Memphis' most gifted writers, was read and placed in the cornerstone of the Oakville sanatorium on Sunday, Oct. 3, as a message from the Nineteenth Century club.

Afar, beyond the hills, a sudden light! A beam from on high, God's glorious realm of hope!

While 'cross the plains come feeble halting feet And faces lifted toward the ray Divine.

As 'shadow of a rock in weary land.

As hushed from the fiercely beating storms Of pain and fear and weakness, when disease Assaults and other shelters bar their doors—

Such will be builded! a wondrous wait

Such will we hail it, we, who banded wait

To serve in God's own time and order

The needs of those who turn to us for aid.

From those who come we hear the children's plaint,

And voices of the fainting on the way,

And voices so maimed they may not hush

Nor treat life's sweetest avenues of home.

Oh, hear them calling! answer them and say,

"The Master came and loose the captive's bonds,

To bring deliverance, and this fall place

Will know His presence and will feel His power!"

The beautiful portal will be wide and high

And lilies of the field will show the way,

And heartease, and all sweetest buds that blow

Will grace the gardens where their feet shall tread.

Oh, captives, now rejoice for answered prayers!

On faithful hearts, that aspirations high

Are realized, that here will be unveiled

The blessed and the longed for House of Hope.

Maury Association.

The Maury Parent-Teacher association met Friday afternoon at the school building, Mrs. DeFor presiding.

The attendance was unusually large and many new members were added to the association. Dr. Durrett, from the board of health, outlined the plans for the child welfare movement and asked for co-operation of the association. Scales have been placed in
